DETAILED ACTION

1. This case is being re-opened for prosecution.

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

 Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tholome in view of Bearden et al.

Tholome discloses a method of thermally protecting an electric motor in an electric sprayer having a control an a temperature, and which operates to maintain a userselected controlled pressure, the method comprising: monitoring the temperature of the electric motor via temperature sensors 61a-c; and reducing the controlled pressure when the electric motor temperature exceeds a predetermined level (column 14). Tholome discloses the pressure being reduced by shutting off the motor but does not disclose the device continuing to spray at a reduced pressure. Bearden et al. teaches a method of thermally protecting the electric motor of an electrical pump 11 by monitoring the temperature within the pump and reducing the operational speed of the pump when an abnormally high pump temperature is experienced so that the pump can still operate while it cools down wherein the pressure will be reduced as the pump speed is reduced, thus making a variable speed sprayer. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the device of Allison et al. by providing the capability for reducing the pressure but also continue spraying when the electric motor temperature exceeds a predetermined level as taught by Bearden et al. so the sprayer can still operate while it is cooling down. Regarding claim 5, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art that when the motor temperature exceeds a first level, the pressure of the device would be reduced as the pump speed is reduced while still continuing to spray so that the device can cool as taught by Bearden et al. and that the control of the motor would change to on/off control by shutting off when the motor temperature exceeds a second level as the final precautionary step to avoid serious damage to the motor, wherein the second temperature is higher than the first.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

- The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
  The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
- 5. Claims 1, 3, and 5 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
- Claim 1, 3, and 5 recite the limitation "the electric motor" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.
- 7. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Davis Hwu whose telephone number is (571)272-4904. The examiner can normally be reached on Mon-Friday 8:00-4:30. If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Len Tran can be reached on (571)272-1184.
